NICKNAMES: Pumpnickel, for the DC culture blog I write, Plight of the Pumpnickel

LIVING AREA: Cleveland Park

HOMETOWN: Rockville, MD

COLLEGE: Washington University in St. Louis

AGE: 21

INTERESTED IN:

c. A Date/Dating X

a. Friendship X

d. Random Play

b. A Relationship X

e. Whatever I can get

OCCUPATION: Journalist

HOBBIES/INTERESTS/ACTIVITIES: Aside from writing, which I do pretty much constantly, I love to sing – I perform with an a cappella group here in DC after getting into it during college. I also play violin and am starting to pick up the guitar. I'm also a cartoonist; I drew political cartoons during college and still doodle from time to time.

MY BEST FEATURE: Well, naturally, my sparkling personality. I've also been told I have nice, full lips.

THE WAY TO MY HEART: It's cliché, but it's true – a guy who can make me laugh is tops in my book. That, and the ability to quote Cool Runnings.

FAVORITE MOVIE/ICE CREAM/TV SHOW: Favorites are hard . . . I'm not good with absolutes, but if I had to choose: my favorite movie would be The Producers (the original one), my favorite ice cream would be cookie dough, and my favorite TV show would be a tie between The Office and Arrested Development.

THREE THINGS I WOULD TAKE ON A DESERTED ISLAND: Um, a raft, flares and a lighter. But if the island was inescapable: an iPod that never loses its charge and holds the full Beatles catalogue, a bottomless pot of spaghetti with marinara, and the written works of William Shakespeare (if I'm there for awhile, I might as well read something useful).

SOMETHING INTERESTING ABOUT MYSELF:

I absolutely love to travel (I spent a semester in London during college and gallivanted around Europe) and I'm quite the foodie. I'm a very adventurous person, as long as that adventure doesn't involve jumping out of a plane. I'm not ready for that...yet.
